Pathways

Version 1, November 2013

The Accredit Pathways

WAMITAB Accredit provides a comprehensive process, from initial consultation through to review and final accreditation of in-house company training programmes or courses. WAMITAB Accredit provides two quality assured pathways:

- WA1 allows companies to gain a WAMITAB stamp of approval for their programme recognising that it is capable of delivering the stated objectives and learning outcomes.
- WA2 maps their in-house training programme or course against known industry benchmarks and standards to provide formal certification.

When achieved, accreditation provides national recognition of the added value an employer developed training programme or course brings to their workforce in terms of quality, job specific knowledge, skills and experience.

“Helping you to deliver quality in-house training tailored to your business...”

Why Accredit?

We offer accreditation for training programmes or courses that are already in place, and provide support to organisations interested in developing new programmes.

There are significant benefits associated with this type of external accreditation for organisations and individuals alike:

- For the organisation, having company training accredited by an awarding organisation can help in the recruitment and retention of high-quality professionals.
- For the individual, it can provide external recognition of the hard work and learning that has taken place.

To start the Accredit process applicants should complete an Expression of Interest Form available from the WAMITAB website and return it to the Accredit Team at info.admin@wamitab.org.uk.
